PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Hello, I'm Dustin Walker. I'm originally from Cookeville, TN and moved to Nashville to pursue a career in web development. Previously I worked in the service industry and those experiences give me a unique perspective into building applications for the end user. I often found myself curious as to how applications functioned and look forward to creating solutions that are accessible and appealing to all potential users.

EXPERIENCE

Front End Engineering

The Iron Yard / Nashville, TN / 2016

The Iron Yard is a 12 week immersive, in-person code school that introduces many skills necessary to its students to start a career as a software developer. We worked in an agile environment building solo projects as well as team collaborations.
